

I used to receive more than ten calls per week. Now I rarely receive telemarketing calls. This vastly improved my life at home. I have a demanding job and often must take work home. Constant interruptions due to telemarketing calls was an obstacle to completing my work so that I could have a small measure of time to myself or with friends and family. Indiana's law is very important to me.